

Sammy says: dinner theatre is back in Sambro with lobster and dreams of Fort Mac

St. James United Church in Sambro is pleased to present another Sambro Dinner Theatre. This fundraiser is always a popular event and tickets sell fast.

This year's production is "Alberta Bound", which follows the story of two brothers from a Sambro family who have fished there for generations. The playwright's synopsis reads "Jim is tired of fishing with his father and brother. He thinks the secret to happiness is in Fort McMurray where he can make lots of money, but his girlfriend Megan is expecting him to propose, not leave the province. Everyone in Sambro has an opinion about what Jim should do, from his nieces to his grandma. Will Four Strong Winds blow Jim out West to be a Working Man? Or is Life a Highway that will lead him back to Sambro For a Good Time (not a long time)? It's a truly Canadian story based on classic Canadian music."

The cast features local actors of all ages, including a group of young people and children. Directed by Shawn Woodard, with music provided by Susan Feltmate, John Stewart, Carla Leblanc and Gary Burns, this show promises to be full of fun and frivolity, served with a delicious three course lobster dinner for just $40. (Please note that this year there is no alternate meal offered, with apologies from the organizers).

Shows are on Friday April 24 and Saturday April 25 at 6:30 pm, Sunday April 26, 4:30 (please note earlier start time on this date), Friday May 1 and Saturday May 2 at 6:30. Guests should plan to arrive 30 minutes before the show to be seated. Each evening there will be a lively auction featuring locally designed art, crafts and other treasures.
